A Senior Class Production

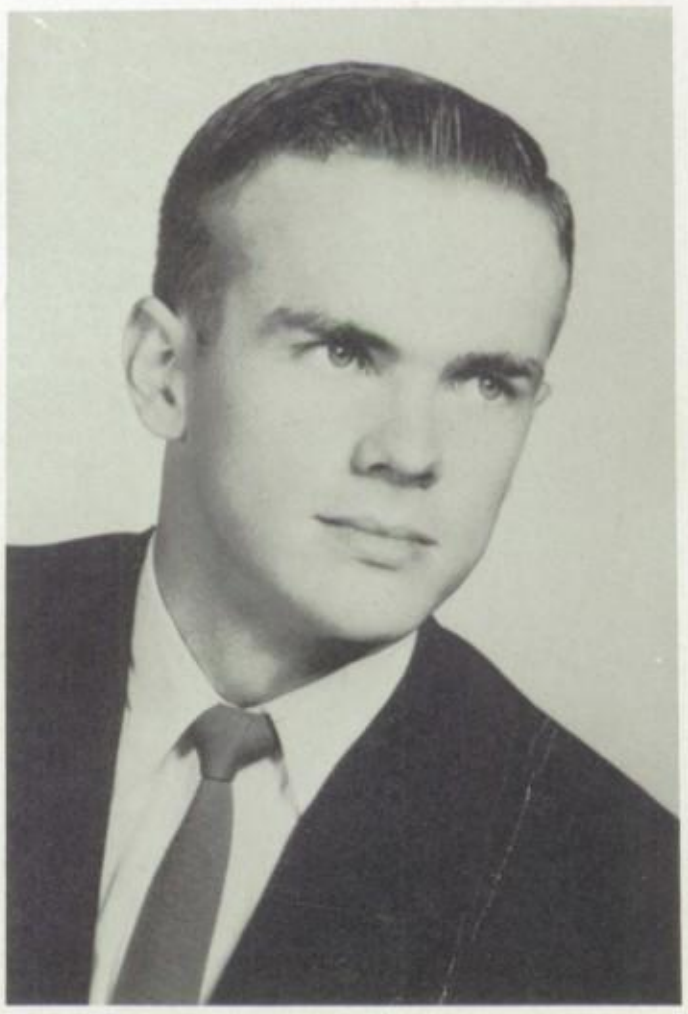
Dedication

For her spirit of loyalty and service to Clay City High School, for her spirit of understanding and patience toward her students, and in honor of her forty-three years as a faculty member, we of the EELITE Staff proudly and sincerely dedicate this 1962 EELITE to Mrs. Viola Dyer.

Memoriam

A life of great significance to Clay City High School has passed on and we are left with only fond memories of what he was to us. The influence of his life cannot be weighed, nor the greatness of our loss measured.

It is with sincere hearts and deep gratitude that we express our appreciation for the life and influence of Mr. David Carter, former Vocational Agriculture teacher of Clay City High School.



We of the Senior Class, who are soon to become graduates of 1962, sincerely hope that in future years this EELITE will become a memento of this school year.

Each student here has contributed to this eventful year just as each alumnus before him has done.

We hope you enjoy the EELITE. It was ours for several months and we turn it over to you.

Mr. Moody, our principal, has worked for and has watched our school become a first-class commissioned school. Each student will remember his dedicated interest in our school and in each student involved.

Mrs. McKee is the office secretary, the chief errand girl, and everybody's friend. She stops for each student's interruption, gives him her full attention, and yet keeps everything in perfect order.

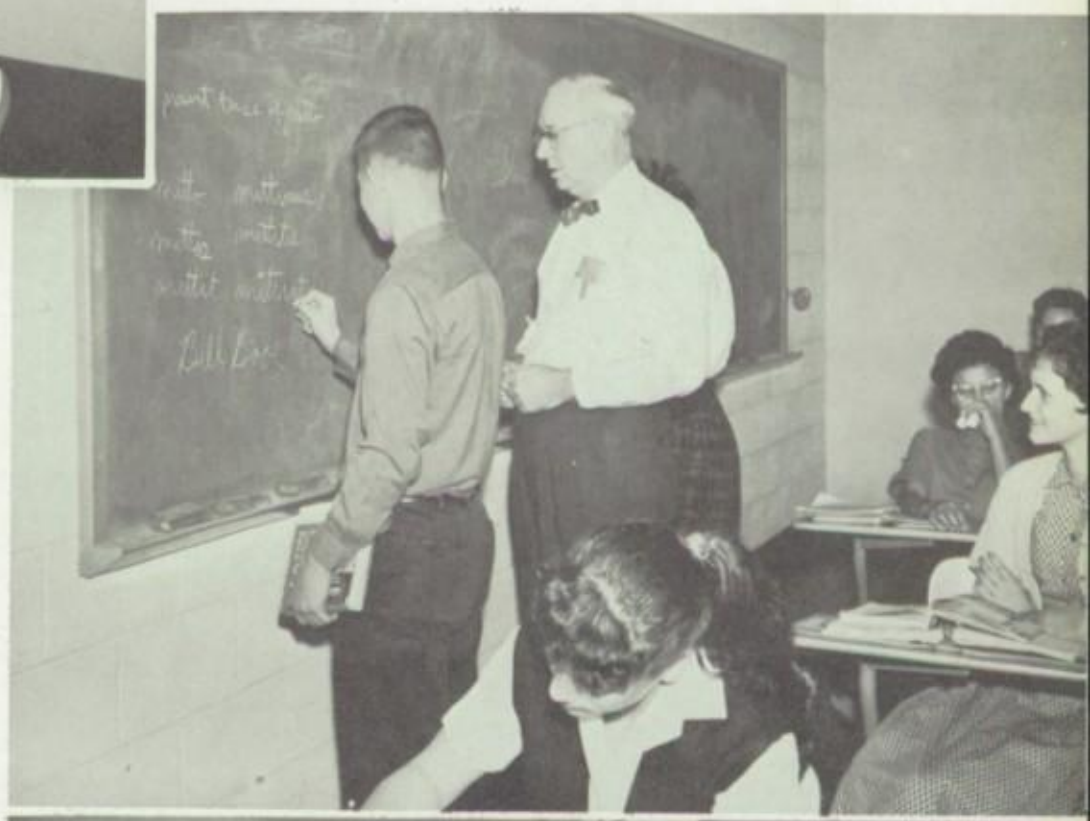
From Finer Arts To Languages

Sing along with Isbell.

That should be a capital.



The music department adds spirit and enthusiasm to various school activities. It also provides extra-curricular activities for students.

A course in Latin is a foundation for students who wish to learn other languages. It helps students to understand the great literature of the past.

Achievement in any school is largely dependent upon one's comprehension and writing ability. The four-year English course prepares students for college.

In art classes, students vividly express their ideas on paper. The art department made decorations for various school activities.

Writing Latin on the board.

Let's draw a picture.

"Knowledge is a Treasure,
But Practice is
The Key to it."

Thomas Fuller, Gnomologia

Minds were enlightened and knowledge absorbed as our students studied from the volumes in our library. Student librarians gained library science training by helping in both the high school library and the elementary library.

Using our store of knowledge.

Five future secretaries all at work.

Never fear--the office is in good hands.

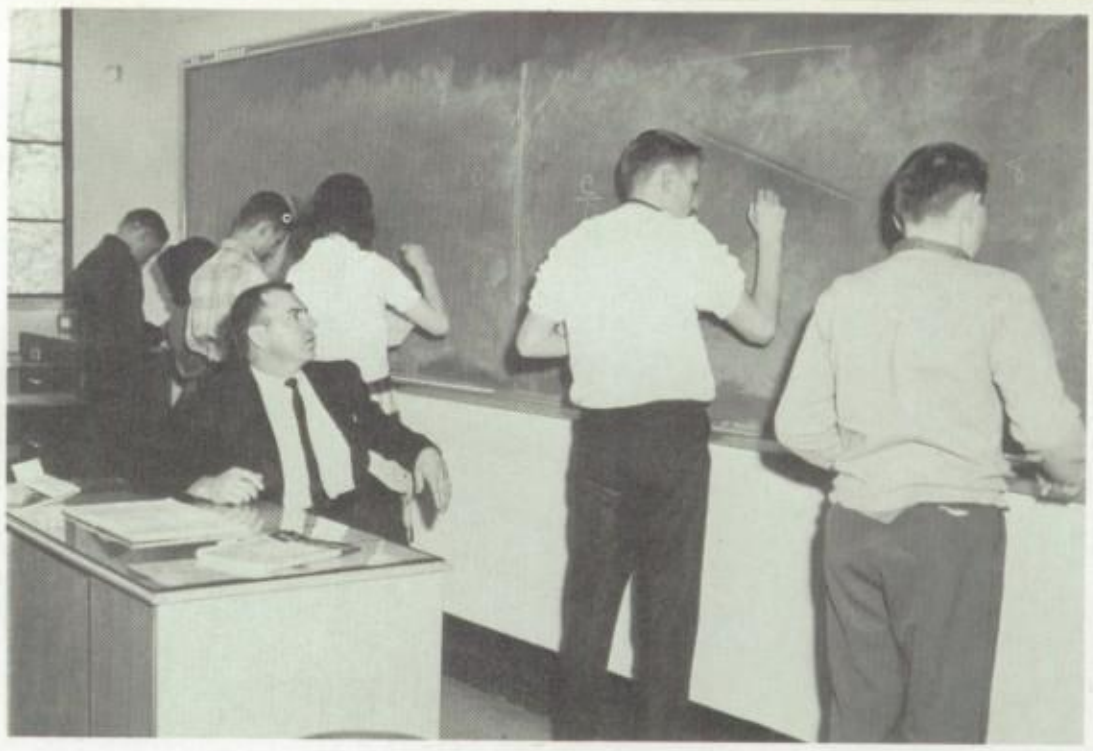
Business education prepares students for employment in the business world as well as providing instruction of business principles for personal use.

Social studies keep students informed about the past as well as the present world events.

Using the map in world geography.

History in the making.

From Facts To Experiences



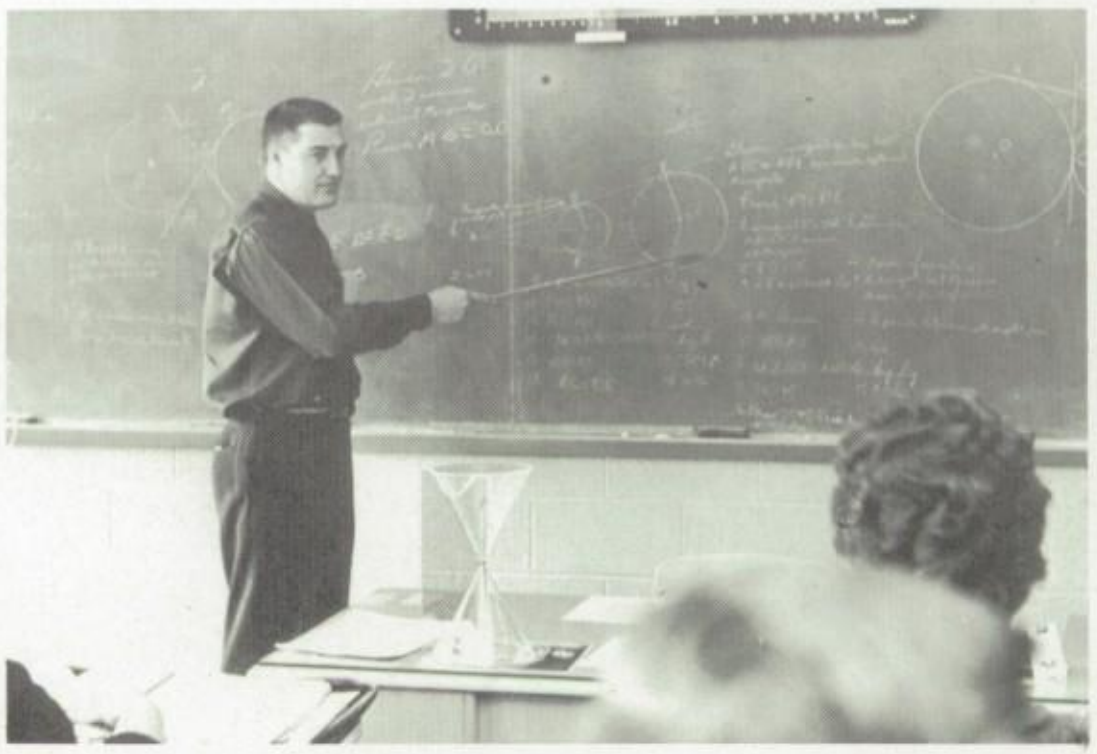
Using formulas in eighth-grade arithmetic.

Fascinating scientific study.

Hard-working girls.

The four-year math course provides a sound and ample foundation for ambitious students. The ability to figure and calculate correctly proves to be an asset in every walk of life.

Our science department endeavors to present each student with a basic and workable knowledge of the biological and physical world. Scientific experimentation rages from the dissection of frogs to the production of explosive hydrogen gas.



Using Modern Equipment

Beaming with pride over our new car.

Educational progress is promoted through the use of modern teaching devices. The opaque projector, overhead projector, record player, tape recorder, movie projector, and filmstrip projector were used in many classrooms.

UHF television provided opportunity for the viewing of educational MPATI programs in the elementary building.

Senior shop boys working with determination.
